New England Latino artists share the spotlight in Fitchburg

By Yvonne LeBlanc, Staff Writer

[Image of a page from the Fitchburg Art Museum catalog]

The exhibit includes paintings, sculptures, photographs, and mixed media works. The artists represented range from established to emerging, and come from a variety of backgrounds and perspectives.

The exhibit is organized by the museum's curatorial team, led by curatorial director, Fred S. Rodriguez. The team worked closely with local Latino organizations to ensure that the exhibit accurately represents the diverse Latino communities in New England.

According to Rodriguez, "This exhibit is a celebration of the rich Latino culture that is a part of New England. We are thrilled to have such a diverse group of artists represented in this exhibit, and we hope that visitors will find the works both inspiring and thought-provoking."

The exhibit is free and open to the public. For more information, visit the Fitchburg Art Museum website at www.fitchburgartmuseum.org.